

Change Means We're Getting Bigger

This Social Story was written by Gino Lerario gino.lerario@hsc.ie for the North Tipperary Children's Services using Carol Gray's Social Story Method. To adapt it, go to www.carolgraysocialstories.com for the 10 criteria for writing Social Stories.

As we grow bigger,
we do different things.

We need
new clothes.

We play
different games.

We eat
new foods.

As we grow bigger,
we change a little bit.

School changes too.

Each year, we might go to a new classroom.

We might have a different teacher.

We might have
new friends and classmates.

School is a little bit different
every year.

Change is okay.

It means we're getting bigger.

Here are some changes
coming for me this year:
